Frank Suter was unable to hold the pace. and before his brother Paul could get on the track, he had been lapped by the field. Still Grenda and Drobach pedalled away like mad, and reliefs were made by the other teams every other lap. At last Wal-Rutt, Frank Kramer and little Jackle Clark came on the track and soon caught the leaders. The sprints did not end by any means. Rutt and later Clarke went out in front like scared jack rabbits and the field was forced to follow or quit.

While the pack rounded the Madison avenue turn, Berthet, who had relieved Brocco, fell, and sliding down the bank | Saalberg, L. Siff and J. S. Hubbard. hit Magin and carried him to the floor. The bell rang at once and the sprinting stopped. It is an ill wind which blows maintained much longer several other St. Francis Basketball Five teams must have been lapped. Attendants hurried to the prostrate riders and carried them to the training quarters. When Dr. Frank Creamer discovered that Magin was badly injured, he called an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. It was feared that the rider was injured internally, and the physicians stated that his condition was critical.

Berthet was badly jarred by the fall, but otherwise was unhurt. After a rest he resumed the race. Much sympathy was felt for the Suter brothers, for it was generally known that for the past

The accident to Magin apparently was without effect on the iron nerves of the other men, for hardly had the remaining teams returned to the track when Walter Rutt jumped out in another sprint. He had ridden only a few laps when Moran went down with a crash, carrying with him John Bedell and Gordon Walker. This spill happened within a few yards of where Magin was hurt, but this time hone of the men was injured. Walker was jarred but continued after a few minutes' rest.

During the early hours of the morning various "barber shop" quartets tried to entertain the crowd, but unfortunately for them their efforts were distinctly out of order, since most of the men in the crowd wanted to sleep, and so declared themselves.

At the fifty-second hour Clarke and Hill was one of the fastest and hardest ever seeding and had covered 1,677 miles and 2 laps, which was 22 miles ahead of the old record, established by Halstead and Lewrence in 1999. The pace continued fast, but all stuck to their guns in good fashion. It was evident, however, even at this hour, that the Suter brothers would certainly fall if a real earnest effort were made to lap them.

"I was obsessed with the idea that I had been wronged, and I wanted satisfaction. I am alone now, without a friend in the world, unless my husband comes to me, and I have faith in him. I think he will come, because I am the mother of his little girl and he knows that I have no one else to help me."

BOMB WITNESS ARRESTED Calls Letter a Forgery and Is Held for Perjury.

Indianapolis, Dec. 11.-Inquiry as to whether John J. McNamara's guilt after his arrest and before he admitted causing explosions was known to President Frank M. Ryan and other officials of the iron workers' union was pursued by the government in its cross-examination of allleged dynamite conspirators to-day.

Did you make any investigation of the eports from President Ryan and Herbert S. Hockin that McNamara was kidnapped and that the prosecution was a frameup by the authorities?" asked District Attorney Miller of M. J. Cunnane, of Philadelphia, who aided in raising the $200,000 McNamara defence fund.

"I knew only what I learned from Ryan and Hockin," was the answer,

William H. Quigley, of Detroit, of the International Association of Joiners and Carpenters, was held to-day to the January session of the federal grand jury on the government's charges that he committed "wilful and mallelous perjury" as a witness for the defence. He was released on $2,000 bond. Quigley is not a defendant at the trial.

The alleged perjury consisted in denying the authorship of a letter written in June, 1910, in reference to a proposed series of explosions in Detroit against non-union jobs. Local officials of the carpenters' union, machinists and iron workers' unions were charged with plotting to unionize the trades in Detroit by the use of nitrogiveerine.

A handwriting expert said that Quigley signature to a letter "calling off" the explosions was genuine. Quigley testified that the signature was a forgery.

Through an Open Window.

Michael J. Quinn, a detective attached to the West 100th street station, shot and killed Charles Mitchell, a negro, who lived at No. 69 West 29th street, yesterday afternoon. The detective had placed Mitchell under arrest in a pawnshop at No. 811 Columbus avenue when the prisoner drew a revolver and backed toward room in the rear of the shop.

Quinn saw the negro pull out the reolver. He drew his own, and, resting it against his hip, fired once. The bullet went wild, and Mitchell, pointing his weapon at the detective, backed into the rear room and dived through a window. As he did so Quinn fired two more shots, one of which struck Mitchell behind the right ear and killed him. The body fell to the yard.

Quinn telephoned to the police station and the reserves were hurried to keep back the crowd that had gathered. Quinn had been looking for Mitchell since May 4 last, when it was charged that the

The Bradford woman was strapped to a chair at the Metropolitan Hospital last night and brought over to the West 100th that of Mitchell and said he was the man who stabbed and slashed her.

She said Mitchell was at one time preacher. The woman declared he stole from her, and when he refused to give it back she threatened to tell the police of his connection with several burglaries on the upper West Side, for which Nathan Humphreys, a negro, is now serving a year in Sing Sing. This enraged Mitchell, the said, and he stabbed her.
